I read articles about war, poverty, food shortage, race destruction, the world and sorrowful lives in the newspaper every day, hoping that our lives will get better. But it seems that the world is actually getting worse every day. Few years ago, I read an advertisement about the children living in Laos. Laos is one of the poorest countries in Southeast Asia. Forty percent of children under the age of five in Laos are sick because they don't have enough food.

In fact, some people are poor in our society. They need the help of others so that they can live a better life. They also don't have food to eat. This is a sad situation. All creature on earth can full fill their basic needs, but human has become the only species that is starving.

I also find children who are not educated. We must find a way to provide housing for the poor. Provide food and shelter for people living in different communities.

I think children are blissful. They don't need to go to work, don't need to help in the kitchen, don't need to do any housework... However, they always complain to their parents, they don't need to go to work, but they always say 'tired'. They don't know 'going to school' is a very precious chance. They always say 'schooling is hard' but they never experienced the life in the third world...

I must do my best to join some voluntary work. I must donate money to the poor countries, I must cherish everything.

I have a motto: living in the present is the best present!
